Course Description
A critical investigation of a particular subject related to the advanced study of Art History and Visual Culture.

Prerequisites &/or Co-requisites
18 units in Art History at the 300 level or above and consent of the Department.

Objectives of the Course
This seminar is designed as an intensive immersion into theoretical and critical texts that have shaped contemporary discourses on art and culture, from foundational essays to recent interventions.

The seminar aims to provide students with the critical tools to engage in contemporary debates about art. Assigned readings should be approached not only as an opportunity to gain competence and expertise, but also as a field for experimentation.

Our core questions will include:
What is the relationship between theory and practice?
How does art mediate between thought and the world?
How do cultural signs produce meaning?
What are the politics of aesthetics and the aesthetics of politics?
What is the place of art within capitalist markets and what is the artwork’s relationship to the commodity?
How does art reflect upon the nature of subjectivity, and its social construction in race and gender? What is the fate of traditional art mediums in our digital age?

The seminar is oriented around reading, discussion, and analytical writing. Its practical objectives will be:
- To gain familiarity with a selection of important theoretical approaches to art and culture.
- To improve competence in reading and engaging with complex texts.
- To hone argumentative and critical writing skills
- To deliver effective oral presentations and engage productively in critical discussion.
Textbooks and Readings
Readings will be provided online in PDF form.

It is not necessary to achieve a passing grade on any particular component of the course, in order to pass the course as a whole.

Participation
The primary emphasis of this course is reading and discussion. Therefore, attendance, punctuality, and active participation in every seminar meeting are the minimum conditions for success in this seminar. Each student will be evaluated based on their informed, respectful, and regular participation in seminar discussions and activities. Any absence from seminar must be approved in advance. All lateness and unexcused absences will affect participation marks, and three unexcused absences will result in an automatic failing final grade for the participation component of the course.

Note on Reading
This course requires students to carefully read a selection of texts for every seminar meeting. Students must come to seminar prepared to discuss assigned readings in detail. Close reading is a primary activity of the class. However, effective reading participation does not solely consist in the mastery of challenging texts: doubts, struggles, inspirations, connections, and critiques are equally valid.

Writing
Writing is a central component of this class. Graded writing assignments will comprise 4 responses, a prospectus, and a final paper.

Registrar-Scheduled Final Exam – NO

Note: It is the student’s responsibility to keep a copy of or any relevant documentation regarding each submitted assignment.

Please submit assignments online through the D2L dropbox. If this is not possible, you can use the drop box outside of AB 608. Assignments that are put into the drop box will be date-stamped and placed in the instructor’s mailbox.

Late Assignment Policy
Students who miss a required component of the course or submit work late will lose grades. Late assignments will lose a letter grade per day in penalties (e.g., from A- to B+). No exceptions will be made for technical problems or corrupted files.
Extensions will be allowed only in exceptional circumstances, with documentation provided for approval in advance of deadlines.

Course Activities

Schedule of readings will be provided on the first day of class.

Studio Procedures

The creation of art can be a dirty process and a studio is only workable if everyone cooperates in keeping it clean. Out of respect and consideration for your classmates and other users of the space, it is expected that everyone will participate in keeping the studio clean and tidy.

Writing/Plagiarism

Writing skills are not exclusive to English courses and, in fact, should cross all disciplines. The University supports the belief that throughout their University careers, students should be taught how to write well so that when they graduate their writing abilities will be far above the minimal standards required at entrance. Consistent with this belief, students are expected to do a substantial amount of writing in their University courses and, where appropriate, members of faculty can and should use writing and the grading thereof as a factor in the evaluation of student work. The services provided by the Writing Support Services can be utilized by all undergraduate and graduate students who feel they require further assistance.

Using any source whatsoever without clearly documenting it is a serious academic offense. Consequences include failure on the assignment, failure in the course and possibly suspension or expulsion from the university. Visual art projects submitted for course credit must be produced by the student specifically for this class. Students must not submit projects if credit has or will be provided for it in another class. This includes re-worked assignments from previous or concurrent courses, unless permission is provided in writing by the instructor. Additionally, the student is asked to be mindful of using visual sources from the internet, ensuring that that material is not derived from any on-line or other available source, and that appropriate copyright permission is granted, when required.
