Course Description

Three-dimensional activities and the structural, organizational, perceptual, social and psychological aspects of art.

Prerequisites &/or Co-requisites

N.A.

Objectives of the Course

Upon satisfactory completion of the course the student will have a working knowledge of conceptualization in various materials like plaster, clay and mixed-media. Students will learn to abstract an idea in visual language and apply the idea through several stages in a cohesive concept, and in a context of the thematic work. Participation, feedback and exchange ideas in friendly environment of classroom and group– critique will be a large part in learning. While the class focuses on exploring various technical skills in working with clay, ready–made, wood and plaster, there are four assignments in the class which will explore various topics in a theme of classic, myth and fairy tales.

Assignments and Evaluation

Participation	10%
In class work	35%
Assignment 1	10%	Jan.28
Assignment 2	15%	Feb.25
Assignment 3	15%	Mar.18
Assignment 4	15%	Apr.08

After each assignment is handed in on the due day, it will be discussed at a group critique and then presented on the Department of Art's wall. After each assignment completion, student will receive written feedback on the whole month progress with three grades on the assignment, participation and in class work. The assignments won't need to be handed in again at the end of the term.

Please indicate whether or not a passing grade on any particular component of a course is essential if the student is to pass the course as a whole.

In order to pass the course as a whole, students must complete all three assignments.

Registrar-Scheduled Final Exam – NO

Late Policy

If students hand in their assignments late without medical reason, one grade is deducted per week.

Course Activities

Students are expected to come to class on time with prepared materials and tools for daily studio work with technical support from instructor (35% total grade) . There will be opportunities for students to discuss assignment ideas with instructor. Students are also encouraged to participate (10% of total grade) in the classroom and to make use of office hours to address his/her questions early in the course.

Other program in the course including:

- Two field trips to “READ art” depending on the art program on the campus and in the community (students will be responsible for their own transportation as well as any costs associated with entrance fees, etc.)
- Two slide presentations from the instructor relating to examples of thematic works.
- Four group–critiques with tea and snack.
- One mid–term review on progress with instructor.

Studio Procedures

The creation of art can be a dirty process and a studio is only workable if everyone cooperates in keeping it clean. Out of respect and consideration for your class mates and other users of the space, it is expected that everyone will participate in keeping the studio clean and tidy.

Writing/Plagiarism

Using any source whatsoever without clearly documenting it is a serious academic offense. Consequences include failure on the assignment, failure in the course and possibly suspension or expulsion from the university.

You must document not only direct quotations but also paraphrases and ideas where they appear in your text. A reference list at the end is insufficient by itself. Readers must be able to tell exactly where your words and ideas end and other people's words and ideas begin. This includes assignments submitted in non-traditional formats such as Web pages or visual media, and material taken from such sources. Please consult your instructor or Writing Support Services (at the Student Success Centre) if you have any questions regarding how to document sources.

Models

In this class students may be expected to draw from nude models. A student electing not to do so must notify the instructors IN WRITING of his/her concerns.

Portfolios and Assignments

After each assignment is handed in on the due day, it will be discussed at a group-critique and then presented on the Department of Art's wall. After each assignment completion, student will receive written feedback on the whole month progress with three grades assignment, participation and in class work. The assignments won't need to be handed in again at the end of the term.

The Department of Art will not assume responsibility for lost or stolen portfolios or course work given to instructors for grading, or for work posted on bulletin boards in the art building.

All unclaimed work will be disposed of two weeks after the end of classes.

Ethics

Whenever you perform research with human participants (i.e., surveys, interviews or observation) as part of your university studies, you are responsible for following university research ethics guidelines. Your instructor must review and approve of your research plans and supervise your research.
